Around The House

WITH ANN COMFORT

Even the cows have gone military at Monterey for they seem to march over the hillsides in military pomp and precision. In that young city that is Camp Ord landscaping has already begun. Lawns are coming up, palms have been planted and here and there, an ancient Monterey cypress has been preserved.

One of the biggest undertakings at the Camp is the providing of recreational facilities. Baseball diamonds, tennis and hand ball courts, a quarter mile track for football, a large gymnasium will materialize with the ready magic that seems to sway under one's feet in the California camps.

Another project at Camp Ord is the building of six chapels which will cost $27,000 apiece. Incidentally, did you know that Camp Ord functioned for about eight months with no guard house?

There was just no need for one. The guest house at Camp Ord opened May 3rd. Mrs. Trowbridge, the gracious senior hostess, who inspires confidence the very moment she greets you, showed me the flower-filled reception room and the comfortable quarters for guests. Fifty-four guests can be accommodated. However, there is another guest house in process of construction. It is wise to make reservations ahead of time, if you plan staying at a guest house.

We were ushered into the enlisted mess of Company A, 17th Infantry by a fat, jolly sergeant. We sat down to a dinner consisting of: Bean soup, pork chops, apple sauce, lyonnaise potatoes, beet-onion salad, asparagus in butter, string beans, cottage pudding with banana sauce, bread, butter, coffee.

The old captain, smiling his lips over the pork chops and helped himself generously to the asparagus. I was prepared then and there to hear him tell the mess about the days when he was a youngster in the army serving in the Philippines, how he ate bacon with skippers, how the corn meal sometimes moved of its own accord, how the hard tack was left out at night to soften in the dew and then in the morning fried for breakfast and called by an unprintable name. But the old captain was on his dignity—he was an officer and a gentleman and he was living very much in the present.

I asked the cook for the breakfast and supper menus. Breakfast that morning had consisted of:

Bananas, dried cereal and fresh milk, soft boiled eggs, cottage fried potatoes, hot biscuits, bread, butter, coffee.

For supper the boys were to have chop suey, boiled rice, jam, bread, butter, coffee.

The chop suey was not skimmed from left over pork chops (as mine very often is). I saw the fresh pork butts that were to go into the kitchen although it is possible that left over pork chops would be used, however. The way the boys heaped their plates it was rather doubtful. They are encouraged to eat all they want, have as many helpings as they want but not to waste anything.

If you ever want to make chop suey for 100, here is the army menu: 15 lbs pork butts, 25 lbs shredded cabbage, 6 lbs carrots shredded, 2 lbs shortening, 4 lbs green peppers, 12 lbs potatoes diced, 10 lbs celery, diced, 1 pint soy sauce.

When I was told that the average gain in weight of the boys at Camp Ord is sixteen pounds—after the dinner I ate there—I never for a moment, questioned those figures.

Always an important factor at an army camp is the morale division. I asked Lieutenant Conrad what the mission of the morale division really is. I would like to pass on to you his answer which was:

"The job of the morale division is to strengthen the ability and determination of every individual to willingly perform his military duty." There isn't the least doubt in the minds of Americans today that the boys at camp will make better citizens and be better qualified in their professions.

RODEO VOTED GOOD SHOW BY THRON

$855 In Prizes Awarded
Including $65 Claimed By Local Horse Show Entries

While the Pony Express Rodeo and Horse Show, held Sunday, was voted "a good show" by the general public in attendance, officials of the show were checking up Monday morning to learn whether the event much more than met expectations.

The attendance, it was admitted, was a little disappointing in point of numbers, but those who were present were rewarded with an excellent program and a show that lived up to its advance billing in every respect.

Public interest seems to be that the show should be continued as an annual event. Probably, the findings of the business management will have much influence on that question.

The riding and roping events attracted an impressive number of competent rodeo performers and the horse show, in which entries were limited to El Dorado County stock, drew a large field reflecting the interest in horsemanship in the county.

Steve Shannon, the cowboy clown, with his trick automobile and his other antics, was as good as his job as one would expect to find anywhere. One might find two clowns, each as good as Shannon, but it is doubtful if he would find any one clown any better.

This, despite the impromptu foolishness resulting from the incident staged at the expense of Sid Price and Lloyd Cannon, wherein they were "attacked" by a calf as they prepared the setting for the musical chairs.

The Pony Express Rodeo distributed $855 in cash prize awards including the $65 awarded in the horse show. Of the prize money, the rodeo posted $300 and the balance was made up by entry fees in the major events.

The results in the rodeo events were available Monday with the exception that the committee had failed to keep a record of the results in the musical chair event in the horse show in which, it was reported, Margaret Fisk won, with Harry Totten second. The name of the third place winner had been forgotten.

Other results are:
Bronco riding, Jack Hara and Marshall Flowers, tied; Gene Rambo, third. There were fourteen entries.

New Registration To Be July 1st

Selective Service Sign-Up
Of Twenty-One Year Olds
Will List About 60,000

SACRAMENTO.—Brigadier General Joseph O. Donovan, State Director of Selective Service, on an inspection trip of local boards in northern counties of California, today informed his headquarters here to the effect that chairmen are prepared for a speedy registration July 1st.

Local boards will, on that date, conduct the second registration affecting an estimated 60,000 young Californians who have reached the age of 21-years since October 16, 1940, and July 1, 1941.

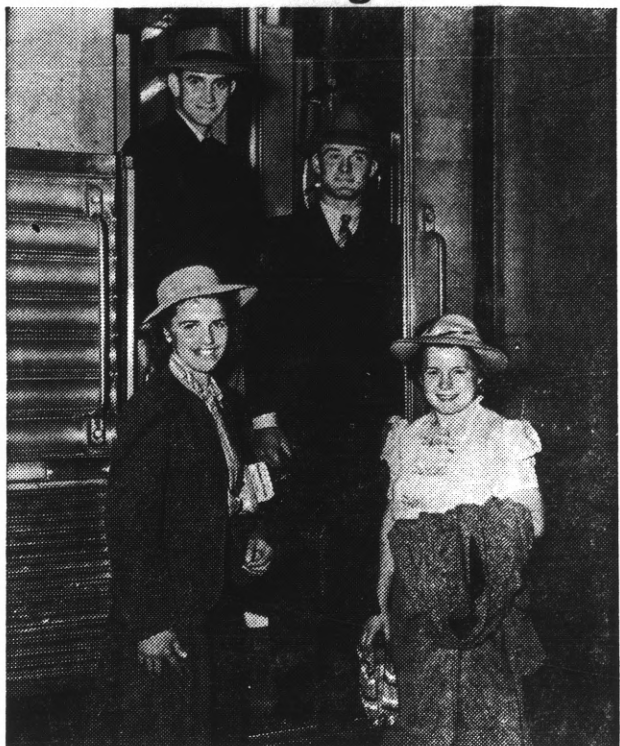

General Donovan, in his report, stated that "chairmen of local boards situated in northern counties are doing a commendable job in making adequate preparations for the registration."

While County Clerks were charged with the responsibility of the first registration on October 16, 1940, General Donovan said that as the second registration will be much smaller, local board members and clerks are expected to handle it without difficulty.

Philip F. Volz returned Monday morning from Los Angeles and San Diego where he had spent last week.

PARADE SATURDAY EVENING DREW GENERAL INTEREST

Many Organizations Represented In Procession
Arranged By De Molay and Led By Sacramento
Chapter Band; Co-Operation Is Appreciated

One of the most successful parades held in the community over a long period of time was that staged under the auspices of El Dorado Chapter, Order of De Molay, on Saturday evening. It outshone other processions principally by reason of the fact that it exuded in numbers of groups participating.

The De Molay chapter had sponsored the parade as a feature of the weekend meeting of Sacramento Valley De Molays in the community and had invited the co-operation of various county civic and fraternal groups. Many responded.

In addition, the Pony Express Rodeo supported the parade heartily. Special mention is due floats entered in the parade by Leona Rebekah Lodge combined with Morning Star Lodge of Odd Fellows, in which Mrs. Harold May and Fred Carpenter rode on the float; another by Placerville Assembly, order of the Rainbow for Girls; and other by the Diamond Springs lodge of Odd Fellows; a float by the Pioneer Quadrille Club and another by the Chamber of Commerce.

The parade formed at the P. F. G. A. fruit shed with Sheriff Geo. M. Smith as marshal and Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis as aide. Massed colors of the participating groups formed the first group and then came the Sacramento De Molay band, with Lola Wilson as drum major and Gordon Wilson as drum major.

El Dorado Commandery No. 4, Knights Templar, had a marching unit followed by El Dorado Chapter, Order of De Molay, and other De Molay members, in cars.

Robert Woodward, convention chairman for the De Molay, said Monday that the general support given the parade by the community is sincerely appreciated by the members of the order and expressed thanks to all whose efforts helped to make the parade a success.

ELEANOR KOLLMAN AMONG GRADUATES THIS YEAR AT U. C. L. A.

Among the fifteen hundred who claimed degrees on Saturday at the annual commencement of the University of California at Los Angeles was Miss Eleanor Kollman, a graduate of El Dorado County high school in 1937.

Miss Kollman claimed the Girls' League Scholarship in that year and announced her intention of enrolling at the University of California at Los Angeles in a pre-medical course.

Word from the university during the weekend is that she was graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Letters and Science.

Ralph Smyth was representing Indian Diggings district in Placerville on Monday.

A. R. Barnes was a caller Monday morning from Camino.

3-DAY MEETING OF DE MOLAY CONCLUDED

El Dorado Chapter Gains
New Honors In Sacramento
Valley Divisional Election

Approximately one hundred fifty members of the Sacramento Valley Division of the Order of De Molay closed a three-day quarterly meeting in Placerville Sunday by electing officers and making plans to meet again at Woodland.

With Kenneth Heffren, of El Dorado Chapter, as the outgoing master councilor, the division honored El Dorado Chapter again by naming Robert Woodward senior councilor. Woodward, acting master councilor for El Dorado Chapter, was chairman of the convention arrangements committee.

Succeeding Kenneth Heffren, who returned home from Camp McQuaid for the meeting, is Bill Hammond, of Sacramento. The new junior councilor is Archie Toole, of Roseville, and John Carah, of Chico was named scribe.

Among state leaders of the order who were here for the meeting were State Master Councilor Fred Diebel, of Bakersfield; State Senior Councilor Francis Steffels, of Roseville; State Junior Councilor Bob Manzer, of Berkeley; Bob Beam, of Santa Rosa, and Jack Bowers, of Modesto, state directors; and Frank N. Killam, of Sacramento, deputy grand master of the Grand Council for District Four.

The convention program opened with the registration of delegates Friday evening and meetings of the order at the Masonic temple at which the initiatory degree was conferred by El Dorado Chapter.

Saturday evening the convention parade, supported generally by civic and fraternal orders of the county, and by the Pony Express Rodeo, was held, and the Sacramento De Molay band, which led the parade, played a short concert in front of the Masonic temple.

Later in the evening the band gave an hour and a half concert and variety show at the Shakespear clubhouse and this was followed by the divisional ball.

Sunday morning, business sessions of the meeting were held after which the convention attended church services at the El Dorado County Federated Church, returning to the Masonic temple for a farewell luncheon and the closing session of the meeting.

$9,754 County's License Share

$7,399 Goes To Rural
Area And $2,355 To City
In Fee Apportionment

The apportionment of $9,658.82 in motor vehicle license fees collected from July 1, 1940 to March 31st, last, was announced by James M. Carter, Director of Motor Vehicles.

Of the total, 20 per cent, or $1,931,764.64, was turned over to the general fund of the state. The remainder was apportioned 40 per cent to the incorporated cities of the state and 40 per cent to the counties on a basis of population.

Under the state law, the money must be used for street and road building purposes or for police and fire protection of the traffic thereon.

Of the total apportioned $7,399.42 went to El Dorado County and $2,355.49 to Placerville, a grand total of $9,754.91.

The total net income from motor license fees for the period was $14,018,254.92. Of this amount, however $4,359,431.72 was withheld to pay interest and principal on outstanding state highway bonds, contributions to the state retirement fund and support of the motor vehicle license tax administration.

Carter said the amount collected is the largest in the state's history exceeding last year's figure by approximately $2,283,000.

The vehicle license fee or "in lieu" tax formerly was collected by the cities and counties in the form of personal property taxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Madigan were up from Sacramento Sunday to attend the rodeo and spend the day with the Barker families.

STORE ROBBERY BEING PROBED

Raley's Market Reported
Scene Of New Theft On Wednesday Of Last Week

City officials were continuing Monday an investigation of a reported robbery last Wednesday night at Raley's Drive-In Market. The exact extent of the loot taken, which appears to have been chiefly in the form of checks, was not known although it was reported to amount to several hundred dollars.

The city police received a report of the robbery on Thursday morning last, and asked the co-operation of the press in the belief that the facts of the case might more rapidly be brought to light if the item were not reported in the newspapers.

However, Monday morning it was said that there were no new developments in the case and that the cause of justice would not be served by further delaying publication of the report.

The market has been the scene for a series of several burglaries or robberies extending over a period of years. Chief of Police Ralph Jones reports that he has been unable to obtain any definite word as to the nature of the checks taken. The checks, it was understood, were made payable to persons who cashed them at the store in the purchase of supplies and were drawn on a number of different accounts in a number of different banks.

ARTHUR MART HOST FOR GROUP OF EAGLES ON FRIDAY

Arthur A. Mart, a past president of Placerville Eagles, was host at a chicken dinner and social evening for some of the members of the order on Friday evening at Garden Valley.

Mart had announced earlier in the year his intention to be host to new members of the order during the past few months, and to those who sponsored the new members, and these formed the group of approximately eighty who partook of his hospitality at the dinner Friday evening.

FRENCH WIN IN SEA BATTLE OFF BEIRUT

Official London Warns
German Movements Toward
Reds May Be Intended Ruse

BEIRUT, (UP)—French destroyers today drove off British warships in a battle at the entrance to Beirut Bay.

By UNITED PRESS

The Axis struck back today against President Roosevelt's action in freezing Italian-German assets in the United States and Europe heard a new crop of rumors concerning alleged Russo-German tension.

Action in the economic and diplomatic spheres overshadowed that on the fighting fronts where Allied columns drove deeper into Syria, British desert columns launched a sudden attack at Sollum, British planes blasted at Nazi heavy industries and German planes struck again at British shipping.

Italy froze American funds and today Americans found themselves unable to draw money from their Italian bank accounts. The Fascist censorship delayed for several hours dispatches reporting these developments.

The Germans criticized the President's freezing order as "absolutely unjustified" and indicated that the Reich would retaliate in due order. The Nazi press did not mention the American action.

The Russo-German situation was no less confusing.

The grist of rumors included these: That the Russian battle fleet in the Baltic has been put on the alert, that German shipping in the Baltic has been called back to home ports, that the Finns have started civilian evacuation of Helsinki, that Nazi ships have left the Finnish ports, that the Soviet has launched virtual general mobilization, that the Germans and Russians have signed a new economic accord, that all military leaves have been cancelled in Russia.

Against these rumors was set a (Continued on Page Two)

Habeas Corpus Writs Denied

Appellate Court And
Supreme Court Decline
To Hear Arguments

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—R. G. Waggenet, chief of the state Department of Employment, today brought charges before the personnel board against Ford Parks, senior interviewer for the department at Placerville, asking his dismissal from the service on the grounds that his personal conduct had brought unfavorable publicity upon the department.

District Attorney Henry S. Lyon reported Monday morning he has received notice from the state Supreme Court that the court has denied a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Ford Parks, held in the county jail for trial on charges of rape. Mr. Lyon said he has also learned that the Third District Appellate Court recently ruled similarly. Both rulings were on the petition as originally filed by the petitioner and were given without either court hearing argument on the issues.

Mr. Lyon said he had not seen a copy of either petition and therefore did not know the grounds which might have been claimed as their basis.

In the Superior Court, where a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the same case was denied, the petitioner claimed as irregularities the circumstance that the father of the complaining witness in the rape case swore to the complaint on information and belief; and the petitioner attacked the proceedings in the justice court on the contention that the preliminary hearing was held in Placerville township, whereas the offense was alleged to have been committed in Mud Springs township.

Park is scheduled to go to trial Monday, June 23 on the rape charge.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

By STANLEY

LOCHINVAR IN RAGS

by KATHRYN CULVER

Julie Hamilton, small-town Southern girl, falls in love with young Westerner hiker to New York for a radio audition. They have a misunderstanding and he goes away embittered, believing she has merely been flirting with him. When she learns he is singing in a cafe in Atlanta she drives to Atlanta, and gets an old beau Duke Chalmers, to take her to the cafe. Barry, however, on seeing her, stares straight through her. She is crushed. She is also dismayed to find that his accompanist, whose husband is the cafe's regular singer is deliberately ruining his songs for fear he will be given her husband's job. When Duke says he can arrange for a radio talent scout to come to hear Barry sing, Julie goes to the pianist's home and begs her to play her best that evening. The pianist angrily starts to eject Julie but Julie, in a rage, overwhelms her ties her up and steals her costume.

At the doorway, she went ahead of him and blindly made her way to the piano. Stage fright assailed her, as she glimpsed the crowd of diners in the room. She had never played in public. Only at home among friends.

This was ghastly! She had done a terrible thing! Even Madame Guilebra would have been better than an accompanist who was so stricken with fright that she didn't know whether she could strike a single note!

She sat down at the piano, not back to Barry and the customer and with trembling fingers opened the sheet music on the rack in front of her. The first song was Home on the Range. Julie stared at it hopelessly while Barry stood erect, a few feet from her waiting for her to begin.

She couldn't play for him! She couldn't lift her hands to the keys. She sensed that he had turned and was looking down at her impatiently.

Then suddenly she was playing, and Barry was singing.

CHAPTER XXV
ON HER way to the restaurant in a taxi, Julie stopped at a drug store to make a telephone call. When she had the Poll Parrot on the line, she said in a deep, husky voice:

"This is Madame Guilebra. I'm sick and can't come to play the piano but I am sending a substitute. She is on her way now."

She hung up hurriedly before any embarrassing questions could be asked. She went out to the waiting taxi and continued on her way.

She was thankful for the long shawl that went with the yvys costume. She draped it over her head and about the lower part of her face in such a way that scarcely more than her eyes showed. She prayed that she could keep Barry from recognizing her.

When she reached the Poll Parrot, she entered by a side door and asked for the manager.

A choleric-looking man appeared and glared at her.

"You're Madame Guilebra's substitute, I suppose?"

Julie nodded, nervously drawing the shawl more tightly about her. "It's about time you got here!" he snapped. "It's time for the first number. Mr. Caldwell is waiting for you."

He led her to the doorway of a little room off the dining room.

As she caught sight of Barry, pacing up and down in the room she stopped and drew back a bit into the shadows of the wall.

The manager said curtly "Here's your accompanist Caldwell," then turned and stalked away.

AS BARRY stepped out into the dimly lit hall Julie averted her face, lowered her eyes, and clutched her shawl about her chin. Barry scowled at her. "I hope you know now to accompany a singer better than that old hag Guilebra!" he growled.

Julie bobbed her head, out kept her face turned away, hidden by the shawl, and did not speak or look up.

"Well, here is our first group of songs," he shoved some sheets of music into her hand. "Do you know them?"

Julie glanced at the titles and bobbed her head again.

Barry hesitated, then spoke with a note of desperation in his voice. "I suppose it's no use to ask you but won't you please do your best? Being a friend of Madame Guilebra's, you're probably in on the plot to make me sound awful but if there's a shred of decency in you, please give me a chance to show what I can do tonight!"

When Julie didn't answer, he sighed and said, "Well, come on—let's get it over with!" He caught her arm and started toward the dining room.

SHE didn't know now it happened. She played without ever looking at the notes—with the sure, instinctive touch of the accompanist who follows and supports the mood of the singer rather than striking the required note with no attention to harmonic co-ordination.

She felt exalted—inspired by Barry's nearness, by the beauty and clarity of his singing voice, by the feeling of attachment between them.

She felt, too, with a rush of triumph, that he became surer of himself as the song went on. She knew that he realized that next to her accompanist upon whom he could depend. He let himself go, his tones rolling out magnificently, putting pathos and genuine feeling into the song.

There was thunderous applause when he finished.

He bent over Julie's shoulder. "You were marvelous," he whispered. "If you can keep that up."

He turned away and picked up his guitar from behind the piano, adjusting the strap about his shoulders.

Julie stole a furtive glance about the dining room. Her heart leaped as she saw Duke Chalmers at a near-by table with two other men. He had kept his word. He had brought the music critic and the radio scout!

SHE turned back to the piano and opened the music of the next song. She was calm now, sure of herself. Barry strummed his guitar softly and Julie's supple fingers caressed the piano keys tenderly, keeping the accompaniment well in the background, showing off the singer's superb voice to its fullest advantage.

As he was singing the final chorus, she stole another glance toward Duke's table—saw that the two men with him were leaning forward intently, their faces indicating clearly that Barry's voice had made a deep impression on them. She knew, then, that everything was all right. She hadn't failed Barry! He had made the most of his chance!

The dining room was in an uproar as the final note died away. Whistles and stamping of feet intermingled with a storm of hand-clapping.

Julie saw Duke and his two companions making their way toward the piano as Barry stood bowing. She turned her face away as they reached Barry and started congratulating him.

Then, she felt a heavy hand on her shoulder, heard a gruff voice saying, "You're under arrest, young lady. Come along."

She turned and stared up into the red face of a burly policeman.

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The threat of a strike at Consolidated Aircraft Corporation's plant, working on $700,000,000 worth of bombers, was removed today, with the signing of a contract between the corporation and the International, AFL-CIO Association of Mechanics.

The German air force carried out another attack upon Cyprus.

The Royal Air Force for the fifth successive night heavily attacked the big industrial facilities of the Ruhr, concentrating on Cologne and Hannover. Little Nazi air action was reported over Britain. The Germans admitted casualties and damages from the British attacks.

PRESIDENT WARNS LABOR TO QUIT RAIDING FOR MEMBERSHIP

WASHINGTON, (AP) — President Roosevelt today warned labor organizations to stop raiding each other for membership and notified government agencies to watch such jurisdictional strife.

Mr. Roosevelt's action coincided with authoritative disclosure that President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations planned to match the administration's campaign against the subversive labor agitators with a "purge" to CIO left-wingers who incite "outlaw" strikes.

California At Los Angeles Will Graduate 1,500

WESTWOOD, (AP) — President Robert Gordon Sproul will deliver the annual commencement address to approximately 1,500 graduates of the University of California at Los Angeles tomorrow afternoon.

The 22nd annual exercises will be held in the university's new open air theater and the graduating class will be the first to receive their diplomas on "home grounds" since the university moved here in 1929.

1941 TOURIST TRAVEL IN WEST EXPECTED TO BE HEAVIEST EVER KNOWN; GAINS SHOWN IN FIRST FIVE MONTHS OF YEAR

A summer of heavy travel, perhaps the biggest year the west has ever known—that's what western travel experts foresee today. As conservative business men, they refuse to make ironclad predictions but here are the reasons which they believe will put more cars on western highways and more people on western trains, busses and planes, than ever before:

1. Increased national income in all lines of business and industry.

2. Closing of travel to many other countries.

3. Concentration of citizen troops in the west, which will bring their families here to see them during vacation.

Records of Californians, Inc., the All-Year-Club of Southern California and other civic groups show that travel in the first five months of 1941 was 15 per cent to 25 per cent ahead of 1940. Shell Touring Service reports a big increase in requests for itineraries, with hundreds planning to visit the Pacific Northwest and Canada.

"Two important steps for taking care of this big tide of visitors already have been taken in this area," it was stated here today by Shell's local manager, L. R. Armes.

"All Shell dealers and stations have been supplied with road maps, travel folders and local information charts, to help them serve visitors."

"Second, many of these stations again have adopted the 15 specifications set up by a national women's authority as their ideal in maintaining rest rooms. Each station which conforms to these specifications will be allowed to display the nationally known white-cross-of-cleanliness emblem. Tourists, recognizing this emblem, will be more likely to stop in this city because they know the emblem identifies a restroom that's home-clean."

"Local station operators are to be commended for their progressive-ness in getting ready to make a banner tourist year."

The government has started buying another item of food to be shipped to Great Britain. This time, it's concentrated orange juice.

The agriculture department purchased 48,000 gallons last week. The department won't say officially what it's going to do with the juice, but there's little doubt that it's intended for Britons.

The English are badly in need of fruits that contain large amounts of vitamins. And the concentrated juice fills the prescription.

The juice—as it comes from the oranges—would be enough to fill a large swimming pool. But it is placed in a vacuum, and most of the moisture is permitted to evaporate.

This process reduces the volume about one-seventh or one-tenth of the original volume, but leaves practically all the vitamins. And in this concentrated form, the juice can be transported in a minimum shipping space.

The purchase of the concentrated orange juice was the first made by the agriculture department. But for a long time, it has been buying dried eggs especially for the British. Last week, the purchase totaled 145,000 pounds. And, by adding water, you can stir up a mighty big batch of omelets.

But other purchases during the week were on the same vast scale. 20,000,000 pounds of dried beans, more than 9,000,000 pounds of lard, 3,000,000 pounds of cheese. And the 28,000-milk oranges, canned tomatoes, canned asparagus, and dried prunes.

It's food for Britain. It's food for needy Americans who are on relief.

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The automobile industry today faced the possibility of rigid controls by the government, on prices asked for 1941 and 1942 models and further curtailment of civilian production.

Five leading automobile companies, who have increased their prices from $10 to $53 in the last month, have been asked by price control administrator L. H. Henderson to voluntarily withdraw price increases immediately.

Price officials said that if Henderson's request were ignored, the government would have to create a price ceiling on all new cars at levels prevailing before increases went into effect.

CITY AND COUNTY GOVERNMENT COSTS HAVE GAINED 45 PER CENT DURING 10 YEARS, STATE CONTROLLER REPORTS

SACRAMENTO.—City and county government costs have increased 45.35 per cent in the last ten years, State Controller Harry B. Riley announced in Sacramento today.

In his 1940 report on financial transactions of cities and counties, Riley revealed that county government costs rose 41.52 per cent between 1930 and 1940, which city expenses jumped 53.96 per cent.

The combined bonded indebtedness of California governmental agencies has increased in the ten-year period. The debt of the state itself rose 42.38 per cent increasing from $122,008,500 to $173,715,500 in 1940. Cities raised their bonded debt from $415,065,832 to $501,110,144, an increase of 21.14 per cent. The indebtedness of counties, excluding San Francisco which is classed as a city, decreased 40.77 per cent, reducing the debt from $47,463,800 to $28,113,400.

While expenses and bonded debt in Shanghai is 50 per cent above 1937, the Department of Commerce reports.

The current price of human hair in Shanghai is 50 per cent above 1937, the Department of Commerce reports.

erty taxes, the assessed valuation, was decreasing. City values dropped 24.95 per cent between 1930 and 1940 while the valuation of counties fell 25.30 per cent.

Combined valuation of California's fifty-seven counties, excluding San Francisco, was $6,318,071,264 in 1940 as compared with $8,457,596,611 in 1930. The state's 286 cities last year had a combined valuation of $4,921,636,046 as compared with $6,557,569,912 in 1930.

A breakdown of combined county costs in 1940 show that education accounts for 44.01 per cent; charities and corrections 27.19 per cent; debt interest and redemption, 8.06; general government, 6.22 per cent; highways and bridges, 5.59 per cent; and protection to person and property, 5.54 per cent; health, sanitation, recreation and miscellaneous, 3.39 per cent.

The current price of human hair in Shanghai is 50 per cent above 1937, the Department of Commerce reports.

STATE SHARES HEAVILY IN DEFENSE WORK AWARDS

With California ranking third all the states of the Nation in the matter of national defense contracts awarded, boom days are ahead for the automobile industry in the Golden State, according to Vincent Waldron, Placerville Pontiac dealer.

"Only New York and New Jersey stand higher on the list than California, and this means that present good business will continue, because here in California the motor car is a vital part of national defense due to the great distances traveled by the men and women employed in armament production work," declared Waldron.

The local Pontiac boss pointed out that between July 1, 1940 and Jan. 1, 1941, more than a billion dollars in defense orders were placed in California alone.

"To be exact, the amount was $1,248,811,663—more than double this state's total farm income for 1929."

ARE YOUR ELECTRIC APPLIANCES DOPEY AND UNDERNOURISHED?

Look at what happens when you put too many appliances to work on a wiring circuit... The appliances are dopey and slow in action. Bread for example gets toasted in eight minutes instead of five or six. That means slow down when circuits are overloaded. When a qualified electric contractor or architect specifies adequate wiring for a home he is thinking of your convenience and economic use of electricity now and in the future. Good adequate certified wiring costs little more than "skippy" or cheap wiring and it soon pays for itself many times over.
